

A Cheyenne Herald Quiz:

One of these roundabouts is on W. Allison near the new South High School and Johnson Junior High

The other is at Vandehei and I-25 near the high mortgages in Bar X and the homes of the mayor and a city councilman

Which is which?

Roundabout A

This roundabout is a bit older.

It has an ordinary circle with several potential exits. The center "island" is filled with a variety of weeds, including dandelions and thistles.

It has been in use for a year or so and was paid for by you the taxpayer, probably via the City.

Because this is one of those difficult, Level A Hathaway Scholarship quizzes, I'm not going to provide the answer now. I will give you three weeks until the next issue of the Cheyenne Herald is printed to ponder this seemingly impossible query. I predict that 50% will answer that the top photo is of the Vandehei roundabout and the other 50% will choose the W. Allison Rd. roundabout. The reason such a split percentage will think it is NOT the W. Allison roundabout is that city residents know that the southside would never be given short shrift on something so obviously noticeable - that weeds are just as apt to be a part of the "circle" at the Vandehei roundabout near the "high income" Bar X inheritance dudes as the "low income" southside working folks. The answer in 3 weeks.

Roundabout B (x)

This roundabout is newer, having recently opened.

It has an elaborate circle with several potential exits. The center "island" has stone pillars and decorative ironwork. There are no weeds and no place for weeds to grow.

It has been in use for maybe a month and was paid for by you the taxpayer, probably via the State.
