THE CHEYENNE HERALD picks all the winners and losers in the NCAA Basketball Tournament

The 65 teams for the 2006 NCAA Men's Basketball Championships were selected on Sunday, March 12th. Predictably, over 600 newspapers across the United States are reproducing the tournament bracket showing only the opponents in each of the 32 opening-round games (plus the special play-in game to be held on March 14th in Dayton, Ohio).

ONLY ONE NEWSPAPER in the country, however, dares to print the tournament bracket as it will look when the tournament is completed in 3 weeks. Just one more example of why THE CHEYENNE HERALD has been selected for the 4th consecutive year as AMERICA'S MOST COURAGEOUS NEWSPAPER. We are understandably honored and humbled.

In order to provide this unique service to its tens of thousands of readers and subscribers, THE HERALD has gone to great expense to retain the services of HAROLD THE MAGNIFICENT, prognosticator extraordinaire and occasional pastry chef at the Luxury Diner in West Cheyenne.

THE HERALD and HAROLD wish all the teams, players, coaches, fans, and bookies a fun tournament and hope that our revealing the eventual winners and losers before the tournament even starts will not detract from the excitement.
